Naci Sahin elected as new President of the Eurovent Association

Long-term Eurovent Board member and Managing Director of FRITERM succeeds Alex Rasmussen

Oslo, 25 May 2018. During the Eurovent Annual Meeting in Oslo, members have confirmed Mr Naci Sahin as their new President. The MD of the Turkish company FRITERM has been member of the Eurovent Board of Directors since 2011 and succeeds Alex Rasmussen. Sahin used to be President of Eurovent's Turkish member association ISKID from 2013 to 2014 and has been playing a leading role in shaping the internationalisation of the Turkish HVACR industry over the past decades.

With Naci Sahin, Eurovent welcomes its first-ever President from Turkey. The association is representing associations and manufacturers from all over Europe (not only EU Member States). Turkish manufacturers have been actively participating in Eurovent activities since the Turkish sector federation ISKID has joined Eurovent in 1997. The outgoing President Alex Rasmussen, who had been successfully leading the association for the past three years, is going to continue as first Vice-President and will remain responsible for European Union policy matters.

Following his election, Naci Sahin stated:

"It is a great honour for me to have been elected President of Europe's leading HVACR sector association. Over the past decades, Eurovent has brought the European industry together, reduced trade barriers, actively shaped legislation and standards while motivating and pushing our industry to think ahead in terms of energy efficiency, product quality, indoor air quality and many other issues. In the specific case of my country, Eurovent has supported us in complying with EPBD and Ecodesign legislation, which are also applicable in Turkey. The Eurovent Certification schemes have pushed the industry to set the bars higher. Throughout my Presidency, I would like to continue the development path initiated by my predecessors Christian Herten and Alex Rasmussen. A particular focus will be put on further increasing European industry cooperation and unity."

The outgoing President Alex Rasmussen congratulated his successor and remarked:

"At the Eurovent family, we constantly promote a global level-playing field, industry cooperation, reduction of trade barriers, and friendship across borders. Not only will a great industry leader and person be the new President of Eurovent, but also do our members want to set a sign that we take our words seriously. Our members do not support the recent wave of protectionism and have the general interest to keep the movement of goods, people, and services as flexible and open as possible. Naci will also act as an important bridge between our industries in Europe, Central Asia, and our chapter in the Middle East."

Following the Annual Meeting, the Eurovent Association's Board Directors is now composed as follows:

President: Naci Sahin (General Manager, Friterm, Turkey), First Vice-President: Alex Rasmussen (Senior Advisor, Systemair, Denmark), Luca Binaghi (Commercial Director, Sabiana, Italy), Karsten Fuchs (Director Market Segment VAC, ebm-papst, Germany), Mika Halttunen, Chairman, Halton Group, Finland), David Jacobs (VP and Managing Director, Baltimore Aircoil International, Belgium), Eric Jasikas (Marketing Director, UTC Carrier, France), Henk Kranenberg (Senior Manager, Daikin, Netherlands), Guillermo Rosenberg (Managing Director, Hitecsa, Spain), Robin Vollert (VP Sales & Marketing, Swegon, Sweden).

In the course of the Annual Meeting, an exclusive interview with Naci Sahin has been published on our homepage. About Eurovent

Eurovent is Europe's Industry Association for Indoor Climate (HVAC), Process Cooling, and Food Cold Chain Technologies. Its members from throughout Europe, the Middle East and Africa represent more than 1.000 companies, the majority small and medium-sized manufacturers. Based on objective and verifiable data, these account for a combined annual turnover of more than 30bn Euros, employing around 150.000 people within the association's geographic area. This makes Eurovent one of the largest cross-regional industry committees of its kind. The organisation's activities are based on highly valued democratic decision-making principles, ensuring a level-playing field for the entire industry independent from organisation sizes or membership fees.

Eurovent's roots date back to 1958. Over the years, the Brussels-based organisation has become a well-respected and known stakeholder that builds bridges between manufacturers it represents, associations, legislators and standardisation bodies on a national, regional and international level. While Eurovent strongly supports energy-efficient and sustainable technologies, it advocates a holistic approach that also integrates health, life and work quality as well as safety aspects. Eurovent holds in-depth relations with partner associations around the globe. It is a founding member of the ICARHMA network, supporter of REHVA, and contributor to various EU and UN initiatives.
